University of Cambridge International Examinations (CIE) Validates The ACPA Certificate of the Arab Society of Certified Accountants (ASCA)

الجمعية العربية للمحاسبين المحترفين
The Arab Society of Certified Accountants (ASCA)

The unified board of the University of Cambridge International Examinations (CIE), announced that after review of the curriculum books, examinations, accreditation and policies of the Arab Society of Certified Accountants (ASCA) according to the international qualification standards set by the UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), has approved the Arab Certified Professional Accountant Certificate (ACPA) issued by ASCA as of November 2004 examination.

The certificates shall be accordingly issued under the hand of the Society Chairman and the University Vice-Chancellor and the logos of ASCA and the University (CIE).

This unique qualitative accomplishment forms a substantial step in the continual support and recognition, on both the International and Arab levels, of the ASCA Certifications after endorsement by (CIE), based on its inveterate reputation for the last 150 years being a pioneer in providing high caliber international certification examinations and quality accreditation.
