Talal Abu-Ghazaleh titled “The Global Economic Crisis 2020: A Crisis or an Opportunity?”

The session was attended by a wide range of media professionals, economists, academics, and representatives from the public and private sectors, and international and development institutions.

“I have frequently warned against the possibility of a major global economic crisis in 2020,” Abu-Ghazaleh said. Contrary to what was stated by some economic analysts and experts, I have strong reasons to believe that this impending crisis will be much more serious than the preceding one emerged in 2008, which was described by Ben Bernanke, Chairman of the US Federal Reserve Council at that time, as being “the worst economic crisis in the history of the world”. Most likely, the next crisis will emerge in the United States like its preceding one.

The participants stressed the importance of such meetings that would serve the opinion holders and decision-makers, especially with regard to economic analysis based on scientific grounds and phenomena existing in real life. It is worthy of note that, Talal Abu-Ghazaleh Translation Company is one of Talal Abu-Ghazaleh Organization (TAG-Org) & Co International companies, and one of the largest companies in the translation field, providing its clients with the highest quality translation services locally and internationally.
