

The Arab Businessman- the Role Model

HRH Prince Hassan Bin Talal

Nations tend to be proud of their creative sons and entrepreneurs and based on this, I appreciate the positive attitude of Talal Abu-Ghazaleh who chose the path of building institutions and harnessed the potential of his organization and its expertise in governmental, private and civil sectors.

We need a forward-looking evaluation which is based on expertise of different knowledge fields which cannot be achieved through distance communication alone. There is a need to meet and share ideas and opinions and this is what Abu-Ghazaleh always tries to do through his work.

Arab expertise needs to be enriched through exploring new fields including Intellectual Property, management, accounting, ICT and others.

I call upon the Arab businessmen internationally to help in this task as they have great expertise and capability, often beyond those of their respective governments.

What distinguishes the life of Abu-Ghazaleh is his deep and strong belief in learning and building the capacity of our sons and daughters.

Congratulations to him on his success. I wish him all the best.
